

Leadership Webinar Series

BHRAMAR MUKHERJEE

Yale School of Public Health

Senior Associate Dean of Public Health Data Science & Data
Equity; Professor of Biostatistics,
Epidemiology, and Statistics &
Data Science,
Yale School of Public Health

THOMAS FLEMING
University of Washington

Professor of Biostatistics and Statistics,
University of Washington
Consultant, Fleming Consulting, Inc.

with moderator
JENNIFER BOBB

Kaiser Permanente
Washington Health
Research Institute
& COPSS Leadership
Academy

Join us for the COPSS-NISS Leadership Webinar, focusing on statistical leadership in public health!

The discussion will explore how leaders in the field of biostatistics make critical decisions about impactful projects, navigate challenges in conducting impact-driven work, and adapt to emerging trends in the field. Panelists will share personal experiences, highlight key projects that shaped their careers, and provide advice for early- and mid-career statisticians aiming to make a societal impact.

Statisticians and data scientists at any stage in their careers are invited to attend.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 2025
12-1 P.M. ET / 9-10 A.M. PT

NO FEE, ZOOM
PRE-REGISTRATION REQUIRED

https://www.niss.org/events/copss-niss-leadership-webinar-making-impact-public-health-through-statistical-leadership